Team Building

The National Media Museum offers a range of team-building activities inspired by the collections and themes of the Museum, delivered by media professionals. Whether you are looking for a half day package recreating an advert or would like to spend a full day session making your own film trailer, the National Media Museum has the perfect activity for all.

Shoot your own movie trailer

Ever wanted to be a film star or a Hollywood director? This is your chance! With the help of the workshop leader, delegates work in teams to produce their own movie trailer in a day. Selecting a shot list from Horror, Film Noir or Superhero Movie, they will plan, shoot and edit their own minute long piece of work all in time for the end of the day premiere and on DVD to take home.
